THE USBORNE FIRST THOUSAND WORDS IN ENGLISH

Heather Amery
Illustrated by Stephen Cartwright
Revised edition by Mairi Mackinnon
Picture editing by Mike Olley

There is a little yellow duck to look for on every double page with pictures. Can you find it?

Stephen Cartwright's little yellow duck made his first-ever appearance in The First Thousand Words over thirty years ago. Duck has since featured in over 125 titles, in more than 70 languages, and has delighted millions of readers, both young and old, around the world.

About this book

This picture word book has been designed to appeal to children at different ages, and can be used in various ways. This edition has been brought up to date to include words and objects which are common in everyday language and familiar in everyday life.

A wordbuilder for young children
For very young children, it is a bright and stimulating way of learning new words. The large pictures provide lots of opportunities for spotting and matching with the smaller pictures around the edges, and for discussing the lively scenes.

A reading and spelling guide for older children
For older children, the book can be used in the early stages of learning to read, and as a beginner's guide to spelling.

A vocabulary builder for English language learners
For children learning English as a second or additional language, it is a powerful and effective way of learning to read, say and spell new words.

Hear the words online
You can listen to all the words in the book on the Usborne website. Just go to www.usborne.com/quicklinks and enter the keywords 1000 english. There you can also find links to other useful websites about the English language, Britain and the USA.

Using the wordlist
At the back of the book there is a list of all the words in alphabetical order. It can be used to encourage children to look up words and find the right page and picture. This is an important skill which will prepare children to use simple information books and dictionaries.

Remember, this is a book of a thousand words. It will take time to learn them all. This is a book to come back to again and again.

The original 'Find the Duck' book

THE USBORNE FIRST THOUSAND WORDS IN ENGLISH

The Usborne First Thousand Words in English provides a treasury of learning opportunities. It is an exciting picture word book for pre-readers, a valuable practice book and spelling guide for beginner readers and writers, and a highly effective vocabulary builder for English language learners.

Stephen Cartwright's illustrations are full of lively details, giving children lots to enjoy spotting and talking about. Words and pictures have been updated to reflect changes in everyday life; but the ever-popular little yellow duck is still to be found on every double page.

About Usborne Quicklinks

To access the Usborne Quicklinks Web site for this book, go to www.usborne-quicklinks.com and enter the keywords "1000 german". There you can:

- listen to the first thousand words in German, read by a native German speaker
- print out some German picture puzzles for free
- find links to other useful Web sites about Germany and the German language

Listening to the words

To hear the words in this book, you will need your Web browser (e.g. Internet Explorer or Netscape Navigator) and a programme that lets you play sound (such as RealPlayer® or Windows® Media Player). These programmes are free and, if you don't already have one of them, you can download them from Usborne Quicklinks. Your computer also needs a sound card but most computers already have one of these.

Note for parents and guardians

Please ensure that your children read and follow the Internet safety guidelines displayed on the Usborne Quicklinks Web site.

The links in Usborne Quicklinks are regularly reviewed and updated. However, the content of a Web site may change at any time and Usborne Publishing is not responsible for the content on any Web site other than its own. We recommend that children are supervised while on the Internet, that they do not use Internet Chat Rooms, and that you use Internet filtering software to block unsuitable material. For more information, see the Net Help area on the Usborne Quicklinks Web site.

On every double page with pictures, there is a little yellow duck to look for. Can you find it?

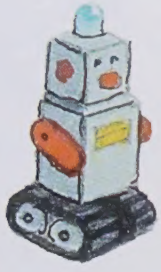
About this book

This is a great book for anyone starting to learn German. You'll find it easy to learn new words by looking at the small, labelled pictures. Then you can practise the words by talking about the large central pictures. This book also has its own Usborne Quicklinks Web site where you can listen to all the German words, print out German picture puzzles, and follow links to some other fun and useful Web sites.



Masculine, feminine and neuter words

When you look at German words for things such as "table" or "man", you will see that they have der, die, das in front of them. This is because all German words for things and people are either masculine, feminine or neuter. Der is the word for "the" in front of a masculine word, die is "the" in front of a feminine word, and das is "the" in front of a neuter word.

Die is also the word for "the" before plural words (more than one, such as "tables" or "men"). Plural words in the pictures are marked with *.

All the labels in this book show words for things with der, die or das. Always learn them with this little word.

Looking at German words

German words for things are all written with a capital, or big, letter. German has an extra letter, ß, which sounds like "ss". It also has a sign called an "umlaut", which is sometimes written over "a", "o" or "u". It changes the way you say the letter and looks like this: ä, ö, ü.

Saying German words

The best way to learn how to say German words is to listen to a German speaker and repeat what you hear. You can listen to all the words in this book on the Usborne Quicklinks Web site. For more information on how to do this, see the page on the left. At the back of this book, there is also a word list with an easy pronunciation guide for each German word.

A computer is not essential

If you don't have access to the Internet, don't worry. This book is a complete and excellent German word book on its own.

Word list

In this list, you can find all the German words in this book. They are in alphabetical order. Next to each one, you can see its pronunciation (how to say it) in letters like this, and then its English translation.

Remember that German nouns (words for things) are either masculine, feminine or neuter (see page 3). In the list, each one has der, die or das in front of it. These all mean "the". The words with der are masculine, those with die are feminine, and those with das are neuter.

Die is also the word for "the" in front of a plural noun (a noun is plural if you are talking about more than one, for example "cats"). In the list, plural nouns are shown with die in front of them and are followed by *.

About German pronunciation
Read the pronunciation as if it were an English word, but try to remember the following points about how German words are said:

- the German ü is said a bit like the "u" in "music"; it is shown as "ew" in the pronunciations
- the German ch is usually said like the "h" in "huge". After "a", "o", "u" or "au", though, ch is a grating "h" sound. It is more like the "ch" in the Scottish word "loch". It is shown as "kh" in the pronunciations
- the German g is said like the "g" in "garden"
- the German r is made at the back of the throat and sounds a little like growling

About this book

The First Thousand Words in Italian is an enormously popular book that has helped many thousands of children and adults learn new words and improve their Italian language skills.

You'll find it easy to learn words by looking at the small labeled pictures. Then you can practice the words by talking about the large central pictures. You can also listen to the words on the Usborne Quicklinks website (see below).

There is an alphabetical word list at the back of the book, which you can use to look up words in the picture pages.

Remember, this is a book of a thousand words. It will take time to learn them all.

Masculine and feminine words

When you look at Italian words for things such as "chair" or "man," you will see that they have il, lo, la or l' in front of them. This is because all Italian words for people and things are either masculine or feminine. Il or lo are the words for "the" in front of a masculine word, la is "the" in front of a feminine word, and you use l' in front of words that begin with "a," "e," "i," "o" or "u." For plurals (more than one, as in "chair" or "men"), the Italian word for "the" is i or gli for masculine words, and le for feminine words.

All the labels in this book show words for things with il, lo, la, i, gli or le. Always learn them with this little word.

Looking at Italian words

A few Italian words have an accent on the last letter of the word. This is a sign written over the letter, and means that the last part of the word is stressed when it is spoken.

How to say the Italian words

The best way to learn how to pronounce Italian words is to listen to a native Italian speaker. You can hear the words in this book, read by a native speaker, on the Usborne Quicklinks website. Just go to www.usborne.com/quicklinks and enter the keywords 1000 italian. There you can also find links to other useful websites about Italy and the Italian language.

Word list

In this list, you can find all the Italian words in this book in alphabetical order. Next to each one, you can see its pronunciation (how to say it) in italics (like this), and then its English translation.

Remember that Italian nouns (words for things) are either masculine or feminine (see page 3). In the list, each one has il, lo, la, l', i, gli or le in front of it. These all mean "the." The words with il or lo are masculine, those with la are feminine. Italian nouns that begin with "a," "e," "i," "o" or "u" have l' in front of them. After the word you will see (m) or (f) to show whether it is masculine or feminine.

Plural nouns (a noun is a plural if you are talking about more than one, for example "cats") have i or gli in front if they are masculine, or le if they are feminine.

About Italian pronunciation
Read the pronunciation as if it were an English word, but try to remember the following points about how Italian words are said:

All the letters in an Italian word are sounded, except h. Double letters, like ll or nn, sound a little longer than usual.

c before e or i is pronounced ch;
ch before e or i is pronounced k;
gh before e or i is pronounced g as in get;
sc before e or i is pronounced sh;
z is pronounced ts.

Most Italian words have a part that you stress, or say louder (like the "day" part of the English word "today"). The part of the word that you should stress is shown in bold italics (like this) in the pronunciation guide.

In the guide, ay is like the a in "date;"
o is always like the o in "hot;"
ow is always like the ow in "cow;"
g is always like the g in "get;"
ly is like the lli in "million;"
ny is like the ni in "onion;"
ye is always like the ye in "yet."

The Usborne First Thousand Words in Italian provides a wealth of vocabulary-building opportunities for language learners of all ages. Stephen Cartwright's delightful pictures encourage direct association of the word with the object, which will ensure effective, long-term learning.

You can now find out how to pronounce every Italian word in this book by listening to a native Italian speaker on the Usborne website. Just go to www.usborne.com/quicklinks and type in the keywords 1000 italian.

At the end of the book there is an alphabetical Italian/English list of all the words in the book.

This edition of the First Thousand Words in Italian has been updated to reflect recent changes to words and objects in everyday life.

This book is also available in English and other languages. For more information visit www.edcpub.com or www.usbornebooksandmore.com

There is a little yellow duck to look for on every double page with pictures. Can you find it?

Stephen Cartwright's little yellow duck made his first-ever appearance in The First Thousand Words over thirty years ago. Duck has since featured in over 125 titles, in more than 70 languages, and has delighted millions of readers, both young and old, around the world.

About this book

Latin was the language of the ancient Romans.
More than a thousand years ago, their huge empire stretched across Europe and into Africa and Asia. Today there are very few people who can speak Latin fluently, but it is still used by the Roman Catholic Church, as well as by lawyers and in scientific names.

With this book you'll find it easy to learn Latin words by looking at the small, labelled pictures. Then you can practise the words by talking about the large central pictures.

Genders

When you look at Latin words for things such as "table" or "man", you will see that they have (m), (f) or (n) beside them. This is because all Latin words for things and people are either masculine, feminine or neuter. This is called the gender of the word. Plural words are given as (m pl), (f pl) or (n pl).

Often, masculine words end in -us, feminine words in -a and neuter words in -um, but there are many exceptions. This means that whenever you learn a new word, it's a good idea to learn its gender at the same time.

Articles

Unlike English, Latin never uses articles ("the", "a" or "an"). Instead of saying "the table", or "a table", the Romans just said "mensa".

New words

In this book you'll find words for things that hadn't been invented when the ancient Romans were alive. However, Latin was still spoken by many thousands of people, long after the end of the Roman Empire. Words have been added to the language for hundreds of years, and Latin experts have come up with new words for recent inventions, based on what the Romans might have said.

How to say the Latin words

The Romans lived such a long time ago that no one knows exactly what their language sounded like, although we can guess quite a lot from Roman poetry and other writing. For some tips on how to pronounce Latin words, go to the Latin-English word list at the back of the book. Words in this list are given with marks to show how to pronounce or stress the vowel sounds, such as the long e in the word "mēnsa". These marks are not generally used in written Latin; to help you, they are shown in the main part of the book in grey.

Word list

In this list you can find all the Latin words in the book, in alphabetical order. Remember that Latin nouns (words for people or things) are either masculine, feminine or neuter (see page 3). This is shown by (m), (f) or (n) after the word; (pl) stands for plural. After each word, you can see its English translation.

About Latin pronunciation

Read each Latin word as if it were an English word, but be sure to pronounce each letter, even when a word ends with e (say it as "eh"). Try to remember the following points about how Latin words are said:

- ae is pronounced like the ie in tie
- au is pronounced like the ow in now
- The Latin c is a hard c, as in cat, even before e, h or i
- The Latin g is a hard g, as in get
- An i before a vowel at the beginning of a word is pronounced like the y in yet
- The Latin u is pronounced oo as in book
- The Latin v is pronounced w

A line above a, e, i, o, u or y shows that the sound is heavy, or long:

- ā is pronounced ah
- ē is pronounced like the ay in day
- ī is pronounced ee
- ō is pronounced aw
- ū is pronounced like the oo in boot
- ȳ is pronounced like a German ü: try making your mouth the shape to say "oo", and saying "ee" instead.

On every big picture across two pages,
there is a little yellow duck to look for.
Can you find it?

About this book

This book is for everyone who is starting to learn Spanish. By looking at the small, labeled pictures, it will be easy to learn the words. You can also look at the large central picture and try to recall words for things. This helps to make words stick in your mind, and it is also lots of fun. Seeing things in a scene will also help you to remember them.

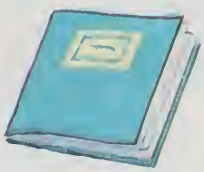
Masculine and feminine words

When you look at Spanish words for things, such as "table" or "man", you will see that they have el or la in front of them. This is because all Spanish words for things and people are either masculine or feminine. El is the word for "the" in front of a masculine word and la is "the" in front of a feminine word. In front of words that are plural (more than one, such as "tables" or "men"), you use los for masculine words and las for feminine ones.

All the labels in this book show words for things with el, la, los or las. Always learn them with this little word.

Looking at Spanish words

In Spanish, the letters "a", "e", "i", "o" and "u" are sometimes written with a stress mark, a sign that goes above them. This sign changes the way you say the word.
Spanish also has an extra letter, which is an "n" with a sign like a squiggle over the top. This letter ñ is said "nyuh" (like the "nio" in "onion").



Saying Spanish words

The best way to learn how to say Spanish words is to listen to a Spanish speaker and repeat what you hear. To help you, though, in the word list at the back of the book, you will find an easy pronunciation guide for each Spanish word.

About this revised edition

This edition brings new life to an enormously popular book. The book has been redesigned to give even clearer pictures and labels, and there are many brand-new illustrations by Stephen Cartwright. The book has also been brought up to date, so that it now includes objects which have made their way into everyday life in recent years.

Word list

In this list, you can find all the Spanish words in this book. They are in alphabetical order. Next to each one, you can see its pronunciation (how to say it) in letters like this, and then its English translation.

Remember that Spanish nouns (words for things) are either masculine or feminine (see page 3). In the list, each one has el, la, los or las in front of it. These all mean "the". El and los are used in front of masculine nouns and la and las are used in front of feminine ones. Los and las are used in front of a plural noun (a noun is plural if you are talking about more than one, for example "cats").

About Spanish pronunciation
Read the pronunciation as if it were an English word, but try to remember the following rules about how Spanish words are said:

most Spanish words have a part that you stress, or say louder (like the "day" part of the English word "today"). So you know which part of each word you should stress, it is shown in capital letters;

the Spanish r is made by a flap of the tip of your tongue on the top of your mouth; at the beginning of the word, it is rolled like rr (see below);

the Spanish rr is a rolled "rrrrr" sound; it is shown as "rr" in the pronunciations;

a few Spanish letters are said differently depending on what part of the world you are in. When you see "th" in the pronunciations, it is said like "th" in "thin" in most of Spain, but in southern Spain, South America and in Mexico, it is said like the "s" in "say"; when you see "g" in a pronunciation, say it like the "g" in "garden".

THE USBORNE FIRST THOUSAND WORDS IN SPANISH

The Usborne First Thousand Words in Spanish provides a wealth of vocabulary-building opportunities for young learners of Spanish, and also for anyone who wants the stimulus of learning with pictures. Devised to appeal to a wide age range, this book contains bright and amusing pictures by Stephen Cartwright, illustrating a basic Spanish vocabulary. It encourages direct association of the Spanish word with the object to ensure effective, long-term learning. At the end of the book there is a full Spanish/English dictionary, which covers all the words in the book and includes an easy-to-use, word-by-word pronunciation guide.

This revised edition brings fresh life to this enormously popular book. The pictures and labels now include familiar objects which have only made their way into everyday life over the past few years. The text has been entirely revised and brought up to date, and there are a number of brand-new illustrations.

This Scholastic edition is only available for distribution through the school market.

THE USBORNE

FIRST THOUSAND WORDS IN FRENCH

With easy pronunciation guide

Heather Amery

Illustrated by Stephen Cartwright

Revised edition edited by Nicole Irving and designed by Andy Griffin

French language consultant: Lorraine Sharp

On every big picture across two pages,
there is a little yellow duck to look for.
Can you find it?

About this book

This book is for everyone who is starting to learn French. By looking at the small, labeled pictures, it will be easy to learn the words. You can also look at the large central picture and try to recall words for things. This helps to make the words stick in your mind, and it is also lots of fun. Seeing things in a scene will also help you to remember them.

Masculine and feminine words

When you look at French words for things such as "table" or "man", you will see that they have le, la or l' in front of them. This is because all French words for things and people are either masculine or feminine. Le is the word for "the" in front of a masculine word, la is "the" in front of a feminine word, and you use l' in front of words that begin with "a", "e", "i", "o" or "u". In front of words that are plural (more than one, such as "tables" or "men"), the French word for "the" is les.

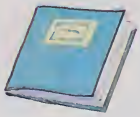
All the labels in this book show words for things with le, la, l' or les. Always learn them with this little word.

Looking at French words

A few French words have accents. These are signs that are written over or under some letters. Usually they are over the letter "e", and they change the way you say the letter.

Saying French words

The best way to learn how to say French words is to listen to a French speaker and repeat what you hear. To help you, though, in the word list at the back of the book, you will find an easy pronunciation guide for each French word.



About this revised edition

This edition brings new life to an enormously popular book. The book has been redesigned to give even clearer pictures and labels, and there are many brand-new illustrations by Stephen Cartwright. The book has also been brought up to date, so that it now includes objects which have made their way into everyday life in recent years.

Word list

In this list, you can find all the French words in this book. They are listed in alphabetical order. Next to each one, you can see its pronunciation (how to say it) in letters like this, and then its English translation.

Remember that French nouns (words for things) are either masculine or feminine (see page 3). In the list, each one has le, la, l' or les in front of it. These all mean "the". The words with le are masculine, those with la are feminine.

French nouns that begin with "a", "e", "i", "o" or "u", and many that begin with an "h", have l' in front of them. At the end, you will see (m) or (f) to show if the word is masculine or feminine. Plural nouns (a noun is plural if you are talking about more than one, for example "cats") have les in front. These are also followed by (m) or (f).

About French pronunciation
Read the pronunciation as if it were an English word, but try to remember the following points about how French words are said:

the French j is said like the "s" in "treasure";

when you see (n) or (m) in a pronunciation, you should barely say the "n" or "m"; say the letter that is before it through your nose, as if you had a cold;

the French r is made at the back of the throat and sounds a little like gargling;

the French u is not like any sound in English. It is a little like a cross between the "ew" of "few" and the "oo" of "food". To say it, round your lips to say "oo", then try to say "ee"; the pronunciations use the letters "ew" to show this sound.

The Usborne First Thousand Words in French provides a wealth of vocabulary-building opportunities for young learners of French, and also for anyone who wants the stimulus of learning with pictures. Devised to appeal to a wide age range, this book contains bright and amusing pictures by Stephen Cartwright, illustrating a basic French vocabulary. It encourages direct association of the French word with the object to ensure effective, long-term learning. At the end of the book there is a full French/English dictionary, which covers all the words in the book and includes an easy-to-use, word-by-word pronunciation guide.

This revised edition brings fresh life to this enormously popular book. The pictures and labels now include familiar objects which have only made their way into everyday life over the past few years. The text has been entirely revised and brought up to date, and there are a number of brand-new illustrations.

The First Thousand Words in English, The First Thousand Words in German and The First Thousand Words in Spanish are all available in this revised edition.

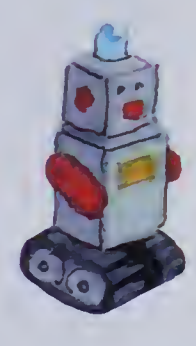
Can you find it?

About this book

This book provides a fun and engaging way for beginners to learn Arabic. On most of the pages, large, colorful panoramic scenes are surrounded with small pictures labeled with their names in Arabic.



Saying the words

Each Arabic word is also written in Roman letters, to show you how to pronounce it. Reading the words while looking at the pictures will help you remember them, and you can test yourself by looking for and naming the objects in the panoramic scenes. You can even practice forming simple sentences to talk about the pictures.

Arabic alphabet

At the back of the book there is a guide to the Arabic alphabet and a list of all the Arabic words with their pronunciation guides and meanings in English. Arabic is written from right to left and there are several sounds for which there are no equivalents in English. The pronunciation guides will help you, but the best way to learn how to say the words is to listen to a native Arabic speaker.

Arabic alphabet and word list

In the list on the opposite page you will find all the words in this book in the alphabetical order of the English words. Next to each English word is the number of the page on which it appears, and the Arabic for that word written in Roman letters to show you how to pronounce it. The Arabic words written in Arabic letters are shown on the right. Remember, Arabic is read from right to left.

There are twenty-eight letters in the Arabic alphabet. These are mostly consonants as the vowel sounds (e.g. 'a' or 'u') are shown by signs called harakat above or below the letters.
Here are the harakat for the vowel sounds:
ـَ fatha (a short line above the word) This gives an 'a' sound pronounced as in 'sun'.
ـُ damma This gives the 'u' sound pronounced as in 'soot'.
ـِ kasra (a short line below the word) This gives the 'i' sound pronounced as in 'sit'.

There are two other harakat:
ـْ sukoon to show there is no vowel sound
ـّ shadda for stressing the letter sound

Arabic alphabet

This bright and amusing book provides a perfect starting point for beginners of all ages to learn Arabic. Panoramic pictures of everyday scenes are surrounded by small pictures with their names in Arabic. Each Arabic word is also written in Roman letters to show you how to pronounce it. The association of the words and pictures provides a simple and effective way to learn new vocabulary, while the panoramic scenes provide opportunities for talking about the pictures and forming simple sentences.

At the back of the book there is a guide to the Arabic alphabet and a list of all the Arabic words with their pronunciation guides and meanings in English. With delightful pictures by Stephen Cartwright, this is a fun and engaging way to learn a new language.

Teddy Bear's
Fun to Learn

First 1000 Words

How to use this book

Small children love looking at pictures and naming what they see. It can be even more fun if they share a word book with a grown-up. You could start by talking about what is going on in the big pictures. There will be many things that your child will recognize, as well as new objects to discuss.

On pages with small pictures around the edge, children will enjoy finding each image in the large picture. It is useful to talk about the colours and shapes they are looking for, as the scale of the object may be very different in each place.

Rhymes at the bottom of each page encourage children to look more closely at the pictures and to talk about their own experience. Finally, they are asked to find Teddy Bear (who appears on the cover of this book) wherever he is hiding!

As children gain confidence, they will enjoy finding objects throughout the book, not simply on one page. Later still, you could introduce them to the Word List at the back, showing them that it is organized alphabetically.

One of the best ways to help your child to enjoy books and reading is to show that you enjoy them too. We hope you both have fun with this book!

First 1000 Words

Welcome to the wonderful world of words!

Young children will love to spot Teddy Bear on every page and talk about what they see. The brightly coloured pictures include objects that are familiar to every child as well as introducing exciting new images.

Rhymes on every page encourage children to look more carefully at the pictures, while the word list at the end makes this an ideal first reference book.

As Teddy Bear says:

Each time you look
At my special book
You'll find new things to see.
And like it or not
You're sure to spot
A special friend—that's me!
